

More than 2,500 don Santa hats at Brockton High School

Nov 18, 2011 @ 09:43 PM

More than 2,500 Brockton High School students showed their holiday spirit Friday when they donned red Santa hats and gathered in Marciano Stadium. In what has become an annual event, local businessman John Merian and Brockton High Principal Susan Szachowicz led the students from the school to the football bleachers. There, they celebrated the start of the holiday and posed for photos in donated hats passed out by Merian.

More than 2,500 students from Brockton High School gathered at Marciano Stadium wearing Santa hats on Friday as part of the city's holiday tradition.

Malinda Campbell, who works in the main office at Brockton High School, wears her Santa hat in honor of the celebration.

Four-year-old Evan Petrocionne waits in a car to participate in Santa hat day at Brockton High.

Brockton High School students gather at Marciano Stadium to show their holiday spirit.

